Silk scarves, from £85 each, by Jane Carr

NEED TO KNOW

Tied around waists, necks, heads and bag handles, silk scarves were everywhere on the s/s 2009 runways. With this in mind, Jane Carr is the woman you need to know about. After four years as head of printed textiles at VERSACE, Jane returned to London in 2005 to set up her own label. Her latest collection is inspired by the Orient, with orchids, dragonflies, shells and metal bead embellishments. Prices from £85. Enqjane-carr.com.

LONDON FASHION WEEKEND

Don't forget to reserve your tickets for LONDON FASHION WEEKEND, in association with ELLE, at the Natural History Museum, London, from 4 to 8 March 2009. Get designer pieces at a fraction of the price and access to the official London Fashion Week catwalk venue. Join ELLE at the shopping event of the season. Enqlondonfashionweekend.co.uk.

FUNNY FASHION

No one can say the world of fashion doesn't have a sense of humour. To mark this year's Red Nose Day on Friday 13 March, STELLA McCARTNEY (see her collector's edition special ELLE cover on page 64) has designed an exclusive range of T-shirts. Costing £9.99, with at least £5 going to Comic Relief, they feature British icons, such as the Beatles and Morecambe & Wise, with red noses. Wearing one puts you in good company – Sienna Miller (right), Gwyneth Paltrow, Keira Knightley and Kate Bosworth have all been photographed (by Mary McCartney) wearing theirs for the campaign. On sale at TK Maxx now. Enqtkmaxx.com.
